NUMBER 40.

OCTOBER 4, 1912, NORWAY, MAINE.

An Inquest Held.

A hearing was held at the court house under the direction of Coroner A. P. Basset at 10:30 Monday morning and continued through the afternoon to ascertain the cause of the accident of Friday afternoon.

The jury consisted of C. W. Bowker, B. V. Adkins, A. L. Holmes, N. G. Elder, W. P. Morton and L. M. Marston. Chester Records of South Paris was called as first witness. Mr. Records in company with Elmer Campbell was coming up Pleasant street in an auto and was passed by Smith. When they came near Winfield Allen's place they turned to go back to South Paris and did not see the accident.

Mrs. Ed Slattery of South Paris testified that she was walking toward Norway and when she saw the train she came along as a fast clip, and at the same time the train was fast approaching. As they approached she knew they would collide and as they hit she closed her eyes but heard a awful crash. She stated she heard the whistle of the train.

E. N. Anderson, engineer on the train, stated he blew the whistle at the usual place and set the bell to ringing. When coming and deciding it could not stop or clear the track, applied the brakes and at that time the crash came. The train consisted of the engine, a box car and a coal car and stopped about 150 feet from the crossing. It was going about 15 miles an hour.

Dr. Stuart of South Paris testified as to the condition of the bodies, stating that Smith and the two young ladies were dead and that he found Conant with a broken wrist and a scalp wound, while Walker was lying on the ground groaning. It was found his hip was badly broken. The boys were in a medially attended to, made comfortable as possible and sent to Lewiston on a special train.

Edmund Campbell of South Paris testified that he was running the auto referred to by Records and testified similar to him.

Mr. Googin of South Paris was the brakeman on the train and on this particular trip was standing on the board on the front of the engine. When reaching the crossing he saw the auto approaching and he jumped to the right of the train and escaped unhurt.

The other witnesses were H. M. Wilson of South Paris, conductor, Percy L. Damon of South Paris, fireman, each testified along the same lines as to the train and the accident.

The testimony of Foret Conant was given by deposition. He stated that he was sitting on the front seat and was with the three young folks on the back seat. They did not hear or see the train until about fifteen feet from the engine and swinging up in the doorway but could not see the train. The next thing Conant knew he was being picked up by the brakeman.

The jurors and A. P. Basset, after hearing the testimony went to the jury room.

Mr. McCrea of Montreal, head of the claims department, assisted by Hon. H. P. Sweetser of Portland, were in court in behalf of the Grand Trunk Railway. County Attorney, Ralph T. Parker of Rumford represented the state and Hon. Alton C. Wheeler represented the families of those in the accident.

The jury which was out about an hour and twenty minutes returned the verdict that the death of Harry B. Smith, Miss Fairclough and Miss Grace Conant was caused by collision of automobile with Grand Trunk train and no blame is attached to the railroad.

Millinery Openings.

Mrs. R. L. Powers and Miss H. M. Taylor had their fall and winter millinery openings, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Mrs. Powers' window millinery was shown on a black and white setting. Miss Taylor's window figure wore a pink silk and her hat was a large white beaver trimmed with a pink feather band and a large pink velvet rose.

Mrs. Powers had for helpers Mrs. Ernest Robbins, Miss Quincy Adams, Lillian Powers and Hazel Bicknell. She showed 75 trimmed hats. Miss Taylor was assisted by Angie Young and Mrs. G. A. Allen. She had 115 hats.

We saw hats in velvet, velours, taffeta, silk plushes and felt. The black and white were much in evidence, while a great deal of brown, green, mulberry, gray, ivory, navy blue, red and violet were seen. General simplicity of trimmings was found this year, more than in any year previous. The hats are very artistically trimmed. The small amount of trimming is put on to give great value.

A deal of paradise feathers are seen, wings, fancy feather stick ups. Ostrich feathers are still popular. In fact ostrich and fancy feather trimming are on most of the hats. Moire and corded silk are popular, and fancy brocade.

In the matter of size there seems to be about an even division between the large and small hat. In the larger hat low trimming predominates and in the smaller have high trimming. The rule is extremely high or very low trimming. Many hats have the cut brim. There is a tendency to trim well out on the brim instead of on the crown. Fancy feather bands and draped effects are much in evidence, and the hard round top crowns for the large hats.

The hats that we particularly noticed was a mushroom shape in baby blue moire, black velvet facing and blue ostrich band, small pink roses. A large white moire hat, smoothly fitted to frame, white maline pleated around brim with a center cord in plaiting, and two perfectly flat caught with small cerise bows. Champagne felt hat, broad and a slightly rolled brim, bound with white plush, white lobster feather underneath, two white roses made of satin and gold on the upper brim.

A large black velvet hat in Shepherds shape, jet band on upper brim, three little flat bows to close the crown, white paradise under the brim. A black velvet hat with white plush fitted on upper brim and half way up the crown, white marabon feather, bound with white shade, draped in velvet and silver cloth, fancy silver fringe and fancy white and black feathers.

A black and white plush with fancy black feather band on brim and a fancy ribbon bow. Small plaited white ribbon bows. A light blue felt, with wreath of purple pansies with velvet bow to match the pansies. A villetted in black velvet, draped with fancy band of gold net over white satin on one side, dark green and black bird shape feather. A blue velvet felt trimmed with white ostrich band under brim and gracefully bushed at one side, a large pink rose surrounded by forget-me-nots on side of the crown.

A gray turban in beaver cloth, fancy blue and brown oblong able silk draped crown, bow ornament. A turban with very light brown fancy feather band with peacock eyes, green velvet draped for top giving the broad bow effect across the front. Black plush hat, turban with the brim in four parts, French curls with a fancy gold lace over white satin facing, yellow paradise. A turban in violet velvet, a plaiting, a violet ribbon around the tall rolled up brim, two white feathers on side back.

A girl's poke, the close tam crown in facelia plush, brown velvet shirred brim, two rows of brown marabon and brown feathers, bunch of rose berries and brown buttons. A black velvet split on each side, heavily draped trimmed with blue and black corded silk forming two bows on either side.

At eight o'clock to the strains of the wedding march played by the High School orchestra, the bride and groom entered the parlor, which was handsomely decorated with streamers of evergreen and ornamented with quince berries. The entire room was decorated with potted plants, hydrangers and cut flowers, and was illuminated by a colored light effect.

The double ring service was performed by Rev. R. J. Bruce. The bride and groom stood under an evergreen arch which was decorated with hydrangers with a background of autumn leaves. The wedding bell was in the form of an electric light, in the center of the arch and tied with white ribbons.

Endorsed at Home.

Such Proof As This Should Convince Any Norway Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow citizens as friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Norway adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

C. E. Bradford, proprietor laundry, Main street, Norway, Me., says: "Sometimes I had a dull pain through the small of my back, together with a tired feeling. I couldn't rest well. When a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Stone's Drug Store. After I used two boxes the pains and other troubles disappeared, and there was a great improvement in my way. I have had no trouble since." 4041

Celebrate 50th Anniversary.

A very pleasant surprise came to Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Adams of Stoneham, when a number of guests walked in on them about 1 o'clock Sunday to have pleasant chats and help them to pass their 50th anniversary.

A more complete surprise couldn't have been as they had no knowledge whatever of the plan till the door of their home opened and the guests walked in.

Owing to the bad weather which was very rainy there were not as many there as would have been had the day been more pleasant.

The hours were spent in social chats, pleasant stories, etc., after which refreshments furnished by the children were served, consisting of sandwiches, fancy cakes, ice cream and cake, of which two were wedding cakes with the year of their marriage and the present year very nicely arranged on the top.

These were made by Lizzie Dill and Mrs. Freland Adams.

Sylvester Adams was a native of Stoneham and has lived there all his life with the exception of a few months spent in Penn. In 1862 he married Louisa A. Paul, who was also a native of Stoneham and has spent nearly all her life in that town.

They had eight children, the oldest having died when but four years of age. Lizzie F. of Portland; John Q. and Dennis W. of Stoneham; Ralph B. and Miles G. of Albany; Freland E. and Mr. Adams has passed the eighty-second milestone and Mrs. Adams has passed the age of sixty-eight. Their married life has been spent in Stoneham where they have always been highly esteemed by their many friends and fellow citizens.

Both are in fairly good health with the exceptions of slight lameness. Mr. and Mrs. Adams were the recipients of many nice and useful presents as well as quite a sum of money.

The guests took their departure about 4 o'clock wishing the couple many more years of health and happiness.

By a letter just received here, the birth of a second son is announced, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Fernald of Los Angeles, Cal. The interesting event occurred on Sept. 10. Frank O. Fernald is the eldest son of Gustavus S. Fernald, esq., of Chicago, a native of Otisfield and is a civil engineer by profession in the employ of the Pullman Car Company.

The father of Gustavus was Osborne Fernald a native of Holdenville in the third decade of the last century, for whom the new corner to the house of Fernald is named.

Did anybody say "corn shop?" Well dear friends: when a thing is good and giving satisfaction to all concerned, isn't it best to keep it before the public? This is the third week since the Waterford Packing Company commenced packing operations and things are getting to be "quite interesting" as the young convert said about his Bible with which he had begun to get a little acquainted.

With the new team of husking machines and several additional labor-saving inventions suggested by some ingenious mechanic, it is found that only about thirty employes are required where in the early days of the industry, several hundred were necessary to do the same amount of work.

A STONE ROOFING

A good many people say and some people really think that none of the manufactured roofings are durable. Now this is a great mistake. A roofing that is composed of Asbestos and Portland Cement is practically everlasting. If you wish to pay the price, which is not very high either, you can have a roofing that will last as long as the Pyramids. As the philosophic John D. Rockefeller says about Sunday School, "The more you put in, the more you can take out."

J-M Asbestos Roofing is literary a sheet of pliable stone—with the rust-proof, rot-proof, acid-proof and lasting qualities of stone and with the fire-proof quality of Asbestos. And—like all stone—it never need painting.

We are agents for all grades of H. W. Johns-Manville Co's Asbestos Roofings and can furnish them for any desired price. Call and see the roofings or ask for samples and prices.

Celebrate 50th Anniversary.

A very pleasant surprise came to Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Adams of Stoneham when a number of guests walked in on them about 1 o'clock Sunday to have pleasant chats and help them to pass their 50th anniversary.

A more complete surprise couldn't have been as they had no knowledge whatever of the plan till the door of their house opened and the guests walked in.

Owing to the bad weather which was very rainy there were not as many there as would have been had the day been more pleasant.

The hours were spent in social chats, pleasant stories, etc., after which refreshments furnished by the children were served, consisting of sandwiches, fancy crackers, ice cream and cake, of which two were wedding cakes with the year of their marriage and the present year very nicely arranged on the top.

These were made by Lizzie Dill and Mrs. Freeland Adams.

Sylvester Adams was a native of Stoneham and has lived there all his life with the exception of a few months spent in Penn. In 1852 he married Louisa A. Paul, who was also a native of Stoneham and has spent nearly all her life in that town.

They had eight children, the oldest having died when but four years of age. Lizzie P. of Portland; John Q. and Dennis W. of Stoneham; Ralph B. and Perley A. of Albany; Freeland B. and Miles G. of Norway.

Mr. Adams has passed the eighty-second milestone and Mrs. Adams has passed the age of sixty-eight. Their married life has been spent in Stoneham where they have always been highly esteemed by their many friends and fellow citizens.

Both are in fairly good health with the exceptions of slight lamenesses. Mr. and Mrs. Adams were the recipients of many nice and useful presents as well as quite a sum of money.

The guests took their departure about 4 o'clock wishing the couple many more years of health and happiness.

The father of Gustavus was Osborne Fernald a native of Holdenville in the third decade of the last century, for whom the new corner to the house of Fernald is named.

Did anybody say "corn shop?" Well dear friends: when a thing is good and giving satisfaction to all concerned, isn't it best to keep it before the public? This is the third week since the Waterford Packing Company commenced packing operations and things are getting to be "quite interesting" as the young convert said about his Bible with which he had begun to get a little acquainted. With the new patent husking machines and several additional labor-saving inventions suggested by some ingenious mechanic, it is found that only about thirty employes are required where in the early days of the industry, several hundred were necessary to do the same amount of work.

Three Killed in Auto Accident.

One of the worst accidents which has occurred in Norway or South Paris for years happened Friday afternoon about 4:40, when an automobile driven by Harry Smith of South Paris and carrying four passengers, collided with the Norway Branch train at Hick's Crossing, just below Norway Pine Grove cemetery.

A party of students from Hebron Academy, including Bessie May Fairclough of Richmond, Dorothy Esther Grose of East Sumner, William Edmund Walker of Castine and Forest Burbank Conant of Hebron, started out for a ride in Conant's auto and when nearing South Paris it was found the engine was not running perfectly so went to Harry Smith's garage on Western avenue to have it repaired. It was suggested Smith take the driver's place and take a short trip to see if he could detect the trouble. The party started up Pleasant street toward Norway at pretty fast speed. When nearing the crossing, it is claimed he was leaning to one side to see if the engine was running right, when in an instant, before there was time to stop, the car collided with the train which was returning from Norway after taking the passengers over from the down train.

The driver evidently endeavored to turn, but not soon enough and the train had smashed through the left side of the auto demolishing the machine, and killing the two young ladies and Mr. Smith. The body of Miss Fairclough was nearly cut in two, that of Miss Grose badly mangled and that of Smith entangled in the wreckage of the machine.

Walker suffered a broken leg and arm and sustained internal injuries and was taken to the C. M. G. hospital at Lewiston. Forest Conant, who was the least injured, sustained a broken arm above the wrist but was not rendered unconscious.

After the arrival of Coroner A. P. Bassett, who was out of town at the time of the accident, a coroner's jury was impaneled as follows: C. W. Bowker, D. P. Adkins, Albert Holmes, Wm. P. Mortimer, L. M. Winslow and N. G. Elder, all of South Paris. The jurors took the oath of office and viewed the remains about 9:15, which had been placed in the ambulance near the scene of the accident.

The crew in charge of the train were: Engineer, E. N. Anderson; fireman, Percy Damon; and conductor, Herman Wilcox, all of South Paris. The train consisted of an engine and two box cars.

There was some difficulty in getting a coroner as Wm. S. Wheeler's commission had just expired and A. P. Bassett was away. Under the circumstances Mr. Wheeler telephoned to Gov. Pleasant and applied for authority to remove the bodies, which was granted and the mangled bodies were placed in the ambulance, and upon the arrival of Mr. Bassett the bodies were removed to the undertaking room.

Harry B. Smith was about 30 years old and leaves a widow and two small children. He opened his garage at South Paris a few months ago. He formerly lived in Denmarkville, Me., while Mrs. Smith's folk reside in Penikese.

Bessie May Fairclough's home was in Richmond, where her father now resides. Her mother died a few years ago. She was 18 years old and a sister of Professor W. W. Fairclough, head of the modern language department at Hebron Academy and with whom she lived while at school. Prof. Fairclough was notified by phone of the fatal accident and of the tragic death of his sister, and hastened to the scene in an auto.

Dorothy Esther Grose, 17, was the daughter of George Grose of Sumner and was a popular student at Hebron Academy.

William Edward Walker's home is in Castine, he is about 15 years old and the son of former State Senator William Walker a hotel proprietor of Castine. Forest Burbank Conant, aged 18, is the son of A. A. Conant, Rural Mail Carrier of Hebron, owner of the car in which the party rode.

FORTUNES IN FACES.

There's often much truth in the saying "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, for other blemishes figure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them, 25 cents at The Noyes Drug Store.

Norway's Resident Revolutionary Soldiers.

Norway History gives the following account of our Revolutionary soldiers. It will not only be interesting to know there were at least twenty-two or more Revolutionary soldiers and families who lived and settled in our town, but it may give us some knowledge of their descendants. The lady descendants would without doubt be eligible to become Daughters of the American Revolution, and in addition to these there are many more with Revolutionary ancestors who have moved to our town from other places.

It has already been said that several of the early settlers of this town had taken an active part in the great struggle for independence. Some of them took part in the Concord and Lexington fight, and more of them still were in the battle of Bunker Hill.

Their terms of service varied all the way from a few months to the entire period of the war, which was seven years. The terms of enlistment were generally short, and some of our early townsmen enlisted three or four times.

"Nearly all of these men were originally from Massachusetts, and there were very few able-bodied Massachusetts men who were not in the service more or less during the Revolutionary War. Even old men and invalids were in the Rhode Island Campaign, and also in the army that besieged Boston while that city was occupied by the British troops."

"The close of the war found the colonies bankrupt. Massachusetts had exhausted her resources, having nothing left but wild lands with which to reward her soldiers. To such as were willing to emigrate to the 'Eastward,' as coming out of the war, and some of these called, liberal terms were offered, and very many ex-soldiers availed themselves of it. Fryeburg, Bethel, Buckfield, Rumford, Hebron, Waterford, Turner, Livermore, Jay, Paris and a few other towns who came to Norway may not be complete. It is almost certain that George Stevens was in the service, but the compiler of this work is unable to obtain conclusive evidence of the fact. Those who lived until the passage of the laws which gave them a pension, are easily traceable, while of those who died before the enactment of the pension laws, no evidence of service can be found except upon the original pension rolls which are not easily accessible, and by the aid of these rolls persons cannot be identified with absolute certainty. The fathers of many of Norway's early residents are known to have served in the Revolutionary War, but it was thought best to limit our list to those who became residents of the town."

The Advertiser asks that the graves of our Revolutionary soldiers be located and with the names and dates of birth and death and any additional fact be sent to the Advertiser. If there are monuments or tablets or any kind of marked gravesites at their grave to copy the inscription and send it just as it is marked. If the graves have no markers write to Abigail Whitman Chapter, D. A. R., at Norway.

Any historical Revolutionary spot in Oxford County either marked or unmarked, or any other people would like to read of in the Advertiser.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Fourteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elgin, Ill.—"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health."

"I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well."

—Mrs. HENRY LEISBERG, 743 Adams St. Kearneysville, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet. "After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. G. B. WHITTINGTON.

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"Joshua Pool, one of our early pioneers, was a Revolutionary soldier and a pensioner. He died in Greenwood, August 23d, 1844, aged eighty-two years. "Stephen, Curtis, originally from Plymouth County, but came here from Hebron, served one year.

He volunteered in Captain Bodwell's Norway Company, January 5, 1813, and died at Burlington, Vermont, October 13th, of the same year. His widow with her large family moved from Norway to Woodstock. Her maiden name was Lydia Cobb, a sister of Isaac Cobb, the early settler here who subsequently moved to Abbot.

"This list of Revolutionary soldiers who came to Norway may not be complete. It is almost certain that George Stevens was in the service, but the compiler of this work is unable to obtain conclusive evidence of the fact. Those who lived until the passage of the laws which gave them a pension, are easily traceable, while of those who died before the enactment of the pension laws, no evidence of service can be found except upon the original pension rolls which are not easily accessible, and by the aid of these rolls persons cannot be identified with absolute certainty. The fathers of many of Norway's early residents are known to have served in the Revolutionary War, but it was thought best to limit our list to those who became residents of the town."

The Advertiser asks that the graves of our Revolutionary soldiers be located and with the names and dates of birth and death and any additional fact be sent to the Advertiser. If there are monuments or tablets or any kind of marked gravesites at their grave to copy the inscription and send it just as it is marked.

If the graves have no markers write to Abigail Whitman Chapter, D. A. R., at Norway.

Any historical Revolutionary spot in Oxford County either marked or unmarked, or any other people would like to read of in the Advertiser.

Butterflies.

Like the Birds They Migrate South in the Fall

If you roam through the country in September or October, you will see large brown butterflies hovering about the tall milkweed plants. They have light brown wings dotted with white spots and bordered with a black band. They are called the Monarch or the milkweed butterfly.

Sometimes if you peep under a milkweed leaf, you may find a kind of bag hanging down. In this Mrs. Monarch Butterfly has laid her eggs. When the little caterpillars come out, they find plenty of food to eat and just the kind they like best. The caterpillars are greenish-yellow, with two bunches of black hair, like horns, at head and tail, and with black stripes across their bodies.

How they do eat—these hungry greedy creatures! Then they spin a cocoon, which hangs from a twig by a short thread. It is made extra strong, because the wind sometimes blows upon it very hard and rocks this curious cradle. Some kinds of caterpillars are eaten by birds, but Mrs. Monarch Butterfly is safe, because she has a bitter fluid inside of her body which birds do not like.

You have often seen the little birds gather together when frost comes and flock to the south. Did you know that butterflies do this? If you see 10 or 12 Monarch butterflies flitting about together, you may be quite sure they are getting ready to fly south. Sometimes they wait too long. A heavy frost comes and the pretty-winged creatures never reach the southland. But most of them start in time and journey a great way.

The caterpillars, too, take very long journeys in a most curious manner. The butterfly often lays her eggs in hay or weeds, which are put up in bales. These are sent away in steamers, which go across the ocean to far distant lands. So when the caterpillars hatch, they find themselves in England or Australia or the Philippine Islands.

Looking Backward

In Otisfield.

By GRANTVILLE FERNAND, No. 7

My native town is, like the promised land into which the Israelites were journeying after their forty years journey from Egypt to Canaan—a land of hills and valleys. (Deut. 11-12) The highlands of Otisfield are not more elevated above sea level than those of Harrison, Waterford or Norway, I think.

The very earliest impressions I ever received from outward objects of nature, were from seeing with my little boy's eyes, a high hill which lifted its pine-crested summit across deep valleys or gorges which looked very dark in the morning before the sun was high enough to penetrate the shadows of the distant valley.

That Highland, we boys called "Ben Lovewell's Hill," because Mr. Benjamin Lovewell's farm and home residence was on the top level of that hill. I soon learned that the direction of the sun rising in mid-summer was East and I took great pleasure in beholding the opening of the young day as the sun rose behind the Lovewell Hill, or later in the year, came up away beyond Thompson's pond and the hills of Poland.

The family of Benjamin Lovewell were well known to me in my boyhood. They were all church goers and attended the Sunday meetings at the Free meeting house. There were three sons, Samuel, David and Chandler, and one daughter, Lucinda. They were, all except the youngest, older than I, but I am sure they were all neighbors and companions in the numerous young people of their acquaintance.

Lucinda Lovewell was one of the most beautiful girls of her generation in Otisfield. In my susceptibility to the power of feminine charms, I think I was a willing and ardent admirer of her at first sight and so indelible is the impression upon my mind of her "in my mind's eye" I can see her in groups of maidens of her age, all comely in face and form, but she, taller and with an indescribable grace of mien and motion and a commanding presence that a queen might envy. She was certainly a cynosure among her girl comrades, and there were others.

This girl whose personal attractiveness I am celebrating became the wife of Allen Scribner of Scribner Hill, a handsome young man, who died a few years after their marriage and not many years after his decease, she also passed away. But few now living remember them. Allen was an elder brother of Latham Scribner who is well remembered by many yet living.

Another scene which dwells yet more vividly in my memory, was the procession of people going to church on Sunday on different roads. That was a day when nearly everybody old and young were habitual attendants at divine service in the meeting house or often in a schoolhouse located at a remote distance from either of the two meeting houses in the town.

The country road leading directly by the old meeting house on the hill on each Sunday morning for many years, witnessed the throngs in carriages, on foot gathering from all directions to the place of worship. They came by fifties and by hundreds.

It reminded me of the assembling of the tribes to worship at the temple on Mount Zion. I see the place of worship of the old first church in Otisfield was frequently spoken of as "Zion's Hill."

The newer meeting house at Holdenville witnessed a similar conveyance of the families of distant neighborhoods to meet at the open doors of the sanctuary. I intimated that the people came by families, and so it was literally in many cases. It is safe to declare that very few families, however small were unrepresented in the pews on Sunday. A census of names of devoted christian families which could be numbered by tens of dozens or scores would show that they have been many years nearly or quite extinct.

In the period from 1830 to 1860 the Congregational church of Otisfield enjoyed, I think, its greatest measure of growth and prosperity. Through the results of several sweeping religious revivals the church received quite large accessions to its membership of very substantial and useful character.

These were mostly of the younger members of families who from their early childhood had been trained under the influence of the church, and the edifying processes of the church and the Sunday school and by their superior intelligence and active sympathy with the purposes of the church organization in promoting the causes of home and foreign missions and the ever appealing necessity for advancing the standards of a higher moral condition of social life in town and state combined a living force for continual reconstruction of the grand fabric of church institutions on which the welfare and happiness of our country and the world at large depends.

Thus do I look back to the time of the "golden age" of that church which in my younger life, I so used to admire and believe so blessed by divine favor and so thoroughly entrenched in the affections of the people as to be impossible of decadence or decline in its visible membership or power as a living factor of religious and moral benefaction to its immediate community.

My first recollections of the Congregational church were of the large congregations that assembled each Sunday in the old first meeting house, built in the closing years of the 18th century on ground donated for that purpose and largely erected by the munificence of one of my great ancestors. He passed away before my birth and a decaying headstone of slate marks the place of his burial in the old cemetery on the Hill where sleep the remains of others of the pioneer settlers of the town.

I have vivid memories of the external appearance of the building, nearly a half a century after its erection, and its curious internal structure, its square pews with seats hung with heavy iron hinges to be raised so the occupants of the pew could conveniently stand up during prayer time or singing of the Doxology.

Of course the worshippers could not all face the minister as some of them were seated with their backs toward him. I think the tops of the pews were not less than 4 feet above the floor. The entire finish of the audience room of that old first church was a piece of superior workmanship with fine ornamental work on the high pulpit and the stairs leading to it; and the great "sound board" suspended by a twisted rod of iron from the ceiling over the sacred desk used to excite my apprehensions as to the possible fate of the dear old minister in case of a fall of that indis-spensable aid to acoustical convenience of the olden time.

No person has ever sat under the pulpit ministrations of Rev. J. P. Richardson during his lengthy pastorate of the Otisfield church, without a feeling of admiration of the scholarly and impressive character of his preaching and all other services of the church. He was a cultured reader of the scriptures and of the "Watts and Select Hymns" and his vocal rendition of the Psalms of David was a rare pleasure to the hearing sense.

His practice for many years of giving 5 o'clock lectures on Sunday, at B. later's Mills in the schoolhouse and on week days at a private residence in some other neighborhood attested to his faithfulness as a pastor. He was a good pedagogue and in summer generally attended his appointments on foot.

The superior choir service of that church from my earliest recollection and the sweet voices of the singers who sat in two rows across the main or front gallery, composed of elderly men and women and youths of both sexes to the number of twenty, more or less, was a most attractive object to me, for there I choral tunes those sweet and grand old hymns that I have never forgotten, many of them to the tune adorning the pages of modern Hymnals used by all Protestant churches.

The first choir that I remember was led by Nathan Knight, a venerable old singer, who gave the pitch of the tunes the sound of the tuning fork, after the name of the tune selected for the hymn read by the minister.

In that day in which I cherished a considerable remnant of the religious faith that viewed this beautiful world, created by the Architect of the universe for the living-place and use of His children, as a "isle of tears," a theology which, founded upon the concepts of the Papal human soul has more reference to the performance of a perpetual penance and eschewing of the delights and enjoyments derived from the wonderful resources for happiness in nature and art, and the susceptibility of the mind of mankind to the sentiments of divine love and compassion for others which the human heart is endowed, caused the old time chorister to prefer times in the minor key, adapted to hymns like:

How vain are all things here below,
How false and yet how fair;
Each pleasure hath its poison too,
And every sweet a snare.

It was a notable fact that our chorister of 70 years ago, under the influence of his idea that death is penalty for having lived a few years on God's green earth, almost invariably selected the mournful hymns for burial of either old or young.

Hark from the tomb, a doleful sound,
Mine ears attend the cry, etc.

No wonder that Dr. Isaac Watts, the famous English hymnologist of a former century, living in the shadow of so pessimistic a belief, should write such hymns for Christians to sing in Sunday worship as this:

My thoughts on awful subjects dwell,
Damnation and the dead, etc.

This and some other hymns of similar character have been properly excluded from modern collection of hymns. Trusting the friendly readers of this sketch will pardon any criticism of bygone customs of ancestors, I promise to give in my next a cheerful and enjoyable description of later happenings on the delectable old hill that yet stands for so many sacred memories in our hearts.

How Paint.

The first cost of a good job of paint—Devoe—is $50 (average size, of course). The first cost of a second or third or fourth rate job, $55 to $100.

The wear is likewise. The better you paint, of course, the longer it wears. And the more you pay for your job, the shorter it wears!

Devoe is one of a dozen good paints. There are hundreds of bad ones. As likely as not, Devoe is the only good one in this town.
